

Health and Community Care

Rooff can demonstrate a long and varied experience of constructing buildings for the health & community care sector. Recent projects include accident and emergency units, acute psychiatric units, a hospice for children & residential care units for the elderly.

Many of these projects were extensions to existing working hospitals and health facilities. We have developed an expertise that accommodates the sensitive nature of these situations.

In addition to this we have a good understanding and experience of medical specifications and recognise the importance of providing high quality workmanship & materials.

Our fully equipped in house maintenance team ensures prompt and efficient attention to maintenance items that occur after completion. This personal friendly service is very much appreciated by health sector clients.
